

William E. Trautmann

Industrial Workers
of the World

iww.org

“The working class alone is interested in the removal of industrial inequality, and that can only be accomplished by a revolution of the industrial system. The workers, in their collectivity, must take over and operate all the essential industrial institutions, the means of production and distribution, for the well-being of all the human elements comprising the international nation of wealth-producers. The workers will utilize the knowledge of ages to build and to plant on a solid rockbed the foundation of a new industrial and social system.”—William E. Trautmann

William E. Trautmann

Industrial Workers
of the World

iww.org

“The working class alone is interested in the removal of industrial inequality, and that can only be accomplished by a revolution of the industrial system. The workers, in their collectivity, must take over and operate all the essential industrial institutions, the means of production and distribution, for the well-being of all the human elements comprising the international nation of wealth-producers. The workers will utilize the knowledge of ages to build and to plant on a solid rockbed the foundation of a new industrial and social system.”—William E. Trautmann

William E. Trautmann

Industrial Workers
of the World

iww.org

“The working class alone is interested in the removal of industrial inequality, and that can only be accomplished by a revolution of the industrial system. The workers, in their collectivity, must take over and operate all the essential industrial institutions, the means of production and distribution, for the well-being of all the human elements comprising the international nation of wealth-producers. The workers will utilize the knowledge of ages to build and to plant on a solid rockbed the foundation of a new industrial and social system.”—William E. Trautmann

William E. Trautmann

Industrial Workers
of the World

iww.org

“The working class alone is interested in the removal of industrial inequality, and that can only be accomplished by a revolution of the industrial system. The workers, in their collectivity, must take over and operate all the essential industrial institutions, the means of production and distribution, for the well-being of all the human elements comprising the international nation of wealth-producers. The workers will utilize the knowledge of ages to build and to plant on a solid rockbed the foundation of a new industrial and social system.”—William E. Trautmann

William E. Trautmann

Industrial Workers
of the World

iww.org

“The working class alone is interested in the removal of industrial inequality, and that can only be accomplished by a revolution of the industrial system. The workers, in their collectivity, must take over and operate all the essential industrial institutions, the means of production and distribution, for the well-being of all the human elements comprising the international nation of wealth-producers. The workers will utilize the knowledge of ages to build and to plant on a solid rockbed the foundation of a new industrial and social system.”—William E. Trautmann